Overview

We created this GDPR section on our website to go over what GDPR means for you and the steps we've taken to ensure the protection of your privacy.

The EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), which came into effect on 25 May 2018, places new obligations on organisations based in the EEA or which hold or process personally identifiable information (PII) about EU residents.

Our Commitment

For the purpose of processing personal data, Change.co.uk may engage data processors and/or, at its sole discretion, hire other persons to perform certain functions on behalf of Change.co.uk. In such cases, Change.co.uk shall take necessary measures to ensure that such data is processed by the personal data processors in accordance with instructions from Change.co.uk and applicable legislation. Change.co.uk shall also require the personal data processors to implement appropriate measures for the security of personal data. In such cases, Change.co.uk shall ensure that such persons will be subject to the non-disclosure obligation and will not be able to use this information for any other purpose, except to the extent necessary to perform the functions assigned to them.

GDPR Data Protection

The General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) was enacted by the European Union to deepen and harmonise personal data protection regulations. Now in effect as of May 25, 2018, it is a comprehensive and clear set of guidelines that acknowledges that different "flavours" of personal data require different levels of protection.

GDPR applies to all businesses irrespective of region or jurisdiction, no matter where they are based, who collect and process personal data on EU residents. Non-EU companies have to appoint a GDPR representative and will be liable for all fines and sanctions.

Key requirements include:

- Consent
- Data minimisation
- Individual rights

GDPR Scope

Passed in 2016, the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) is the most significant change in European data protection laws since the EU Data Protection Directive (Directive 95/46/EC). The GDPR, enforceable from May 25, 2018, strengthens the protection of personal data in the EU and replaces the earlier directive.
